Students in service learning classes at EFA and Southside High School are teaming up with the Susan Komen foundation to hold a "Mom's Night Out" for breast cancer awareness month. The event takes place from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 26 at Southside High School's auditorium.

People can bring their moms or a special woman in their lives to this event where they will have chances to win jewelry, manicures, a cruise for two from Esperanza Mansion on Keuka Lake, gift certificates to a host of area businesses and more.

Most importantly, those who attend will receive information on breast cancer prevention and breast health.

The cost is $5 for adults and $2 for students. All donations go to breast cancer awareness efforts in our community. Refreshments will be available.

Service Learning Through Health Education is an elective health course for students that focuses on awareness, advocacy and action. Each student explores several health awareness topics and ties his or her learning to an event taking place in the school or community.

Area businesses who either are sponsoring this event or who have donated gifts or services include Blimpie, The Christmas Tree House, Collins and Walton, EFA Varsity Club, Family Video, Firestone, First Arena, Hill Top Inn, Lighthouse Liquors, Melissa's Shear Friends, Original Italian Pizza, Ray's Jewelers, Southside Booster Club, Southside Varsity Club and Subway.
