Elmira City School District teacher wins Chamber education award

Marnie Malone, an Instructional Support Teacher at Southside High School, has received the "Partners in Education" award from the Chemung County Chamber of Commerce.

Malone, who has been teaching for 13 years, is in her fourth year of instruction with the Elmira City School District. She was nominated for the Chamber award by Shelley Bailey, CTE Coordinator for the Elmira City School District, and Jamie Johnson of Southern Tier Economic Growth. Malone won the Partners in Education award for conducting business tours at area businesses; Bailey and Johnson agreed that she was an outstanding tour facilitator who met with business leaders before and after tours, followed up with professional development and helped to create authentic learning curriculum.

Malone will receive her award at the Chamber's annual awards breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Elmira Country Club. For more information, call (607) 734-5137 or e-mail info@ChemungChamber.org.
